

Airplane Splint

The airplane splint is a padded aluminum and Velcro shoulder orthosis used to position the shoulder in varying degrees of abduction (out to the side).

Indications:

- Brachial plexus injuries, pre/post-operative shoulder management, contracture prevention, Erb's Palsy, post-muscle release/tendon transfer of shoulder, and burn management in the axillary region.

Photo courtesy of Prosthetic Laboratories

Modern Technology. Traditional Values. Proven Techniques.