

Shoulder Disarticulation

A shoulder disarticulation procedure is the surgical separation of the entire arm from the shoulder joint. In this surgery the humerus (upper arm bone) and the entire arm are removed from the scapula (shoulder blade) and clavicle (collar bone). No bones are cut during this surgery.

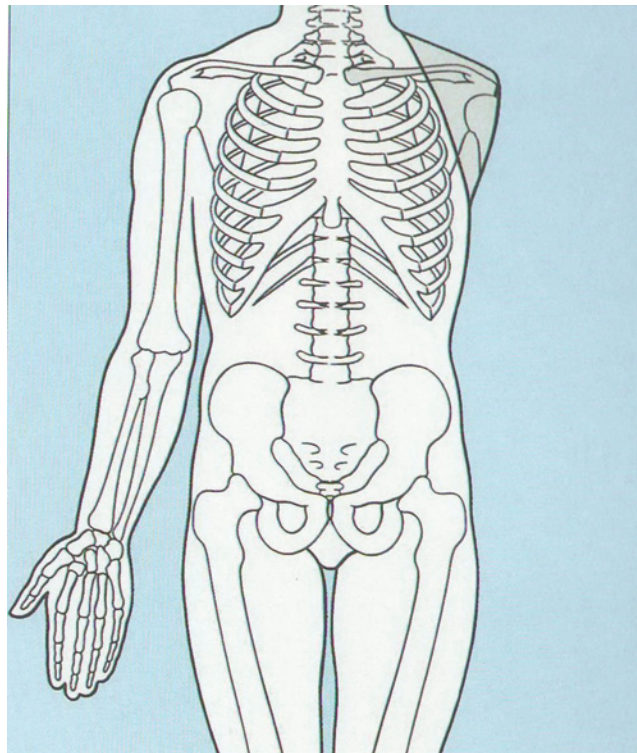

Photo courtesy of Otto Bock Healthcare

Modern Technology. Traditional Values. Proven Techniques.