

Weight Activated Stance Control Knee

The weight activated stance control knee has a weight activated braking system to prevent the knee from buckling under the amputee. This type of knee is often prescribed for patients with little muscular control.

Photo courtesy of Cascade

PROSTHETIC

LABORATORIES

Modern Technology. Traditional Values. Proven Techniques.