

Syme Amputation

A Syme amputation is an ankle disarticulation surgery in which the tibia and fibula (shin bones) are separated from the talus (ankle bone). The foot and ankle are then removed from the body. Because this surgery does not cut through the bones, most patients will have end bearing capabilities.

Photo courtesy of Otto Bock Healthcare

Modern Technology. Traditional Values. Proven Techniques.